

Truman Pledges U. S. Power To Aid U. N. Peace-Keeping

NEW YORK, (CP)—President Truman Wednesday told the United Nations general assembly the responsibilities its strength must be placed upon to unlimited support of the peace-keeping body.

"The use of force or the threat of force anywhere in the world to break the peace is of direct concern to the American people," the president said.

Mr. Truman flew from New York to deliver the opening address to the United Nations general assembly. He repeated what State Secretary Byrnes declared last week, that the fear of war must be removed from the minds of the people. Freedom of fear of war was "attainable now," he said.

Most End Propaganda
He named no individual member of the United Nations except the United States, but he indirectly addressed Russia when he declared that freedom of information, interchange and an end to propaganda were essential to peace.

"Another world war would 'destroy civilization as we know it,' he declared. 'No nation wants war—every nation needs peace.'"

Mr. Truman recalled that the United States left an empty seat when the league of nations was organized after the First Great War.

"This time the United States is not a member — it is host to the United Nations."

Isolationism Abandoned
"The United States is no longer a symbol of the isolationism of the United States of a policy of isolation."

"However, I must tell you that the American people are troubled by the failure of the Allied nations to make more progress in their common search for lasting peace."

Mr. Truman stressed the point that seemed to have been forgotten by the United Nations, that a peace-keeping and not a peace-making body.

War Talk Unwarranted
Talk of war, arising from fear throughout the world, was "unwarranted and unjustified," the president said.

"If these rumors are not checked they are sure to poison world recovery..."

Differences had arisen among the major allies and it will not help us to pretend that this is not the case," Mr. Truman said. "But it is not necessary to exaggerate the differences."

The United States was determined that war-mad Germany be eliminated forever. Other problems listed in the wake of war were discussed on terms just to all states large or small.

Favors Airing Disputes
Mr. Truman supported the idea of open and public discussion of differences.

But he argued that the security council, where the veto power is exercised, should be a body for the settlement of disputes as well as the airing of disputes.

"The exercise of neither veto rights nor majority rights can make peace secure. There is no substitute for agreements that are universally acceptable because they are just to all concerned."

Passenger Blamed In Fatal Air Crash

MORRIS, Man. (CP)—A coroner's jury excusing into the death of George Gardiner of Winnipeg and A. T. Friesen of Winkler, Man., in an airplane crash at Winkler, Oct. 16, attributed the crash to a tailspin.

The tailspin, the verdict said, had been caused by interference with the mechanism by Friesen who was interested in purchasing a plane.

Mr. Gardiner, an RCAF veteran who was believed to have been on the plane about two weeks before the fatal crash at Winkler.

Belgian Cabinet Crisis Reported

BRUSSELS, (CP)—The weakness of the government headed by the Catholic King Baudouin, 39-year-old monarch, is becoming more evident every day, and indications accumulate that the parliamentary leftists may disintegrate before the municipal elections Nov. 24.

On the staff of the department's science service since 1928, Dr. Broadfoot's first task was to continue investigations begun by his predecessor, the late O. G. Scott, on a disease known as scabiosis.

It was transmitted by infected seed to the growing plant, lessening yields and injuring and frequently killing the plant.

Dr. Broadfoot's studies in respect to cereal root rot resulted in the adoption of practices by many farmers in the Canadian west of effective methods of combating this problem.

The dominion, heretofore, has been willing to allow the mines a rebate on provincial taxes paid on a production basis, but not on taxes paid on a profit basis.

Ontario now has accepted Manitoba's plan to increase the rebate to 10 per cent of the cost of production.

If Manitoba's argument is over technical details of computation, the province's argument is over a satisfactory compromise, mines in all provinces coming under the agreement stand to benefit.

Guaranteed Grants
The second kindly point is pretty well ironed out. Annual payments to provinces will be based upon a guaranteed minimum sum, which is to be increased in proportion to increases both in population and in per capita gross national production.

The idea here is to protect the provinces against inflation, when the dollar value of a fixed subsidy would not represent stable purchasing power. But the computation of "gross national production" involves a highly technical formula subject to slight change as improvements are made in the method of reckoning Manitoba's concern is to see that the provinces do not lose through any changes or "improvements" in the method of calculation, while at the same time allowing the common bureau of statistics liberty to make improvements in method.

Children Chased; Man Is Sought
CACHIE JA F, Ont. (CP)—Residents of this small community west of Sturgeonville are keeping their doors locked to police an outlawed bush country surrounding the town in an effort to catch a mysterious man in gray who has closed school children, broken in at least one house and threatened to kill its woman or upland.

Police believe the prowler may be mentally ill. Dressed as a soldier, the man has appeared dressed entirely in military uniform, with a rifle in his hand, and a bullet in his belt.

Last Sunday the "stranger entered a home here, locked two children in the hallway and struck their mother several blows. Police said the woman picked up a butcher knife and the man fled.

His appearance, again mysterious, coming from the bush to chase school children.

Tax Concessions To Mines Sought

By John Bird
OTTAWA—Hanging in Premier Gurnea's room at the Château Laurier is a highly colored print of a rainbow, but there is no "X" marking the spot where the provinces hope to find a pot of dominion gold.

Actually, dominion and provincial experts are putting in hours of discussion on highly technical points in the tax agreement, which have a hard dollars and cents application, not only to Manitoba, but to all provinces which may come under the proposed tax agreements.

Wednesday's discussions centre upon mining and logging taxes. Manitoba's representative putting up a strong fight in behalf of encouraging low grade mining production.

Want Federal Rebates
Under the proposed agreement, mining and logging taxes remain in possession of the provinces, but Manitoba wants to make sure the dominion will allow rebates on their dominion taxes to mines paying the provincial tax. Ontario, Manitoba and B.C. tax mines on a profit basis — no profit, no tax — not on a "pit-head" or gross volume basis. The idea is to encourage maximum extraction of ore.

The dominion, heretofore, has been willing to allow the mines a rebate on provincial taxes paid on a production basis, but not on taxes paid on a profit basis.

Ontario now has accepted Manitoba's plan to increase the rebate to 10 per cent of the cost of production.

If Manitoba's argument is over technical details of computation, the province's argument is over a satisfactory compromise, mines in all provinces coming under the agreement stand to benefit.

Army Recruiting Making Progress

OTTAWA, (CP)—Recruiting for both the active and reserve forces at the new-war Canadian army is "proceeding steadily," defence headquarters announced Thursday, but there still are 10,000 vacancies in the active force and an undischarged number in the reserve force.

The active force, when up to strength, will number 20,000 officers and men, while a reserve strength of 100,000 is planned.

Headquarters said both forces are "withdrawing into action to recruit up to full strength as soon as possible" and that recent approval of the new rates of pay terms of service and the revised pension scheme had opened the way for a full-scale recruiting drive.

Military districts across Canada are being given instructions to start filling their assigned quotas by enlisting volunteers from either veterans or young men who have had no previous military training.

Since the number of additional recruits required for the active force is not large, it is not intended to open recruiting offices, but information on how to enlist will be available to prospective recruits on application to any army unit—reserve or active—in Canada.

In a statement heralding the recruiting drive, defence headquarters said:

Federal Cabinet Committee To Study Mineral Taxation

By H. R. Hardy

OTTAWA, (CP) — Mineral taxation, a prickly problem which has caused considerable concern to all interested in the development and production of Canadian mines, and to provincial governments, is being studied by a committee composed of representatives of the federal government, the provinces and the mining industry.

The committee, headed by the Minister of Mines, Mr. G. A. Healey, was set up last Tuesday by Mr. G. A. Healey, Minister of Mines, and the committee will report on its findings to the cabinet.

An undertaking to study the effect of mineral taxation on the mining industry was announced last Tuesday by Mr. G. A. Healey, Minister of Mines, and the committee will report on its findings to the cabinet.

Real Life Drama on Broadway

A real life drama was played out on a Broadway sidewalk in New York when a Czech father and his daughter, each thinking the other murdered by the Nazis, were reunited under a movie marquee. The father, Arthur Gross-Polansky, 46, had been in a Nazi concentration camp in France during which time he believed his daughter dead. Walking along Broadway he suddenly recognized Gross-Polansky, his brother-in-law. After mutual greetings the father learned that his long-dead child was very much alive and in New York. The daughter was to meet Grey for lunch and so a few minutes later father and daughter embraced as they wept. Here the happy father and his daughter, Krika, are shown after stranger-than-fiction reunion.

Predicts Use Atomic Power To Develop North Resources

TORONTO, (CP) — Vast untapped natural resources of northern Canada—hitherto impossible to uncover because of their distance from the supply centres—may become gainfully productive through application of atomic energy.

A. Winne, vice-president in charge of engineering policy for the General Electric company, in charge of the Standard Engineering Works, a plutonium-producing plant.

"If we can develop atomic energy plants that could be installed in the far north, then it would mean the development of power supply which is not only a great benefit to the north but also a great benefit to the south," he said in an interview.

As a result it might be possible to open mines and other projects further north than anyone has yet gone.

Aside from this development, however, the impact of atomic energy on industrial methods would hardly be noticed.

Atomic plants would be used only to generate electricity which then would be used just as it is today. Atomic energy will never replace the use of coal as a source of power, it will only supplement them.

Churchill Starts Action for Libel

LONDON, (CP) — Winston Churchill Thursday sued Harper and Brothers, New York, and London Publishers and Author Louis Adams for libel, seeking damages for passages in Adams' book, "Dinner at the White House."

The suit also sought an injunction banning further publication and sale of the book, which was written around a White House dinner table conversation among President Truman and Churchill.

Hone to Increase Ruhr Production

LONDON, (CP) — Unilateral action to boost industrial output in the British zone of Germany—announced the commonwealth by Foreign Secretary Bevin—aimed at breaking what an industry committee of the commonwealth calls "vicious circle—shortage of electricity—shortage of coal—shortage of consumer goods."

Mr. Bevin said he will be the effort to boost the Ruhr's coal output. It will also a greater proportion to German civilian industry. Coal exports to western Europe will be curtailed temporarily.

Mr. Bevin was almost quoting from a report of a select committee on estimates which studied the situation first-hand in July to try to reduce the £80,000,000 (£420,000,000 annual burden on the treasury) by the administration of a zone which never has been self-sustaining.

The only solution the last-published report gave was to retain more coal in the British zone, allow German production of extra fertilizers and consumer goods, and thus reduce the need for British-financed imports.

"There is a grave risk that, if the countries in western Europe do not accept a temporary cut now, deterioration of the Ruhr industrial position will enforce on them an ineffectual cut later," the committee said.

For the time being the burden on Britain would be increased through a loss of revenue from coal sales outside the British zone but this will be "later more than retrieved through subsequent increases in the British zone's exports, not only of raw coal, but also of much more profitable semi-manufactured goods, resulting from the easing up of the entire zone's industrial production."

Now the committee's advice is being taken. Coal shipments to other countries, which have been taking about 28 percent of the zone's output, will be cut, as will shipments to other zones of Germany.

STALINGRAD, U.S.S.R.—Ragged, barefoot workmen trudge through the rubble of Stalingrad to their battered tractor factory, once more turning out farm machinery instead of tanks.

The ruins of Stalingrad stretch like a blotch on the earth across 40 miles. The ruins are ugly but the people who live here have an almost reverent feeling about their city. It was here the tide of Nazi conquest was turned. It is both an atrocity and a monument.

The same people who saved Stalingrad because they obeyed the order, "Die but don't give an inch" now labor to bring order in the chaos of broken stone. They have a certain pride. It shines on the bristly face of an old farmer as he slays the flank of a camel, beast of burden in the countryside.

"THIS HANDSOME fellow is the real hero of Stalingrad," he smiles. "He carried the shells to Katsushka when mud stalled the trucks." We went to the Stalingrad tractor factory, built with the help of American engineers in 1932. It switched from tank to tractor production at the end of 1943 and is steadily getting back into production, with about two-thirds of the workers it had before the war. The factory is not clean. It is not well-lighted. The work seems poorly organized. But I saw tractors coming off the assembly line. This factory, while still fixing the out and repairing war damage, is busy to make 600 tractors this year. "How did you ever get back into factory athletic team, big tiny ones production so quickly?" I asked the manager, a vigorous young nursery while he and his wife work, man who has been in charge since and the factory doctor is the fans sell their market. Typical price:

HUMAN MUSCLE MOVES STALINGRAD'S RUINS: Crews of women labor to clear the rubble of war from Stalingrad's streets; some work barefoot in the broken bricks and stones they are moving by hand barrow.

THE CAMEL, DEFENDER OF STALINGRAD: This hero of the defense of Stalingrad now pulls a hay wagon on a collective farm across the Volga. Because trucks bogged down in the mud and made too much noise, camels were used by the Russians to lug heavy artillery, thus helping smash German panzers in the siege of Stalingrad.

Polatoes, 25 cents a pound; milk, 55 cents a quart; meat, $1.46 a pound; eggs, $2.88 a dozen. THAT'S ONE reason why the government encourages a factory worker to have his own cow, chicken, or garden. The more food the industrial worker grows himself, the better. The factory manager hands out small plots of land to the workers, and also helps them to work scarcity. These items are not always available. "And what then?" I asked a worker.

"We can buy at the free market," he said optimistically. I visited that market where farm products are sold. Typical prices:

Editor's Note: Recent reports tell of a purge among collective farm officials in the Soviet Union who are accused of "introducing the principles of private property." "While I was in Russia," says Strohm, "I was surprised to find that the government sanctioned this private property. Farmers were encouraged to own a certain number of livestock, to sell livestock and produce from their privately-owned plot of land on the free market."

WE MET THREE ox carts from a collective farm, making their first delivery of grain to the government. They had celebrated the occasion by raising a huge picture of Stalin over the lead cart. The driver and the farm chairman helped straighten out a few basic questions many of my farm friends had told me to ask: "Who owns the land anyway?" "The government owns the land, but collective farms (there are MOSCOW — In a pouring rainstorm, the Moscow municipal street watering system was working full blast. A watering truck lumbered down the cobble street spraying competition with the heavens. about 245,000) have the privilege of using the land."

"BUT WHERE does the government come in — do you pay taxes?" "No," said the chairman, "each farm has a quota and must make certain deliveries of grain and other crops at a very low price — really a rental fee for the use of the land."

"And after a farm meets these government deliveries, is there anything else it has to give?" I asked. "Well, if the farm uses machine tractoration equipment it pays rental on these."

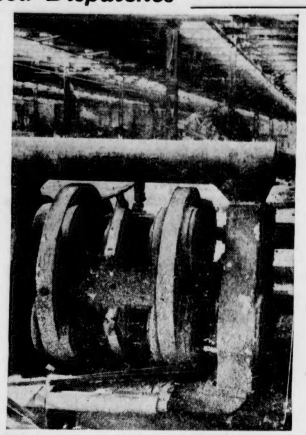

"And then?" "THE REST of the produce belongs to the members of the collective farms and is divided according to the number of labor-days each earned," was his explanation. "It seems to me," I said, "that a farmer who is a pretty individualist fellow all over the world, would find it hard to adjust to this as a collective farm."

"But we have incentives," protested the chairman, and he gave an example. The work of the farm is divided into brigades. The brigadier and his workers have the responsibility of tending certain fields, growing certain crops. For instance, the quota for a 20-acre field of wheat is 20 bushels by the acre. But if this brigade is its good work can make that field yield 28 bushels to the acre then they're over-filling the plan 8 bushels, or 160 bushels in all. Under the incentive system, this brigade gets to divide one-fourth of this surplus, or 40 bushels, among their workers, according to the number of labor-days each put in during the year.

"And what's a labor-day?" I asked. "A LABOR-DAY is the way we measure our various farm jobs. Cutting half an acre of hay with a scythe is 1½ labor-days. If he can do that much in one day, he still gets his 1½ labor-days credit."

"Yes, but what about those jobs that just can't be measured that way?" I asked. "Well, but we have a measurement for all of them: For example: Hauling 15 cartloads of manure weighing 770 pounds each to where they plant the cucumbers. That's 1½ labor-days," he explained. On this farm, 119 workers (96 are women) tilled 960 acres of plow land. That's 8 acres per worker on this grain and vegetable and fruit farm. In the Ukraine a grain farm it is a little more than that. In Byelorussia, on several farms visited they had about 7 acres per worker.

"THE AMERICAN farmer couldn't afford to use that much labor on his farm," I told them. "Well, I see where Tass used your name this morning to answer President Truman. A correspondent remarked cheerfully as we sat down to breakfast in the Hotel

Now factory workers are cannibalizing and reconditioning some of the machinery like that in foreground, which was made in America. Metropol on my return to Moscow-free in Russia. I blushed. He showed me the facts: "Mr. Truman doesn't know what he is talking about. John Strohm, president of the American Agricultural Editors' Association, is traveling freely about the correspondents could not travel in."

FARM CHAIRMAN AND HIS BRIGADIER: This brigadier, on horseback, has charge of 240 acres, supervises the work of 50 women and 12 men on Soviet collective farm; he has two brothers in New York. Collective farm chairman at right gets a percentage of the gross income of the farm for his salary; receives a bonus if he remains chairman for more than two years, and another bonus if farm exceeds quota set by government.

Night Life

STALINGRAD, U.S.S.R. — It was nearly midnight and the streets of Stalingrad were thronged. John Strohm heard music and in the dark made out an accordion player who was making sad music for the young couples to dance to. "Any place is better than sitting at home," said a 20-year-old girl who danced with Strohm. She and her little sister and mother lived in a dug-out under the ruins of what had been an apartment building. Her father and brother fell in the battle of Stalingrad.

Soviet Union right now and talking with the people." And what about the people, are they looking for war?" my correspondent friend asked.

"I'm not a strategist or a psychologist," I replied, but the words of one Russian sounded to me like good sense. He said: "Any one who says the Soviet Union wants war is crazy—unless it is slow learners who are crazy. The people have been living on promises of better things in the sweet life after the war since the Revolution. They accepted World War II as an excuse why they could not achieve a higher standard. Now they want to work for peace-time goals. Our government must consider the people—not war."

THE MAN WHO SAYS THAT was not an official. So far as I could determine he was sincere and grinding no party axe. My eyes and ears can vouch for what he says of the hunger of the Russian masses for the good things in life which complete this government for 30 years as the reward for their sacrifices of self and liberty.

Whether the men in the Kremlin give heed to that hunger is something which no reporter, free or restricted, can answer. I have told only what I have seen and heard and pictured only what was before my lens.

QUEEN CHARMING AS EVER: Newest portrait of Queen Elizabeth was taken by Dorothy Wilding at a special sitting. The Queen still retains charm which endeared her to Canadians during royal tour.

THE KING had his latest picture taken while wearing the uniform of an Admiral of the Fleet. Recently he greeted his brother, the Duke of Windsor, at Buckingham Palace.

FATHER AN 'AUSLIE': Ingel-dore Helden, 21, pretty German girl shown here, who was smuggled into England, sprang a surprise on the court martial court when she told them her father was a naturalized Australian. Lieut. Col. Peter J. D. Johnson of the British army pleaded guilty to the charge of "smuggling" the girl who was his secretary in England and back to Germany again.

CANADIAN STANDARDS HIGH: The only U.S. competitor in the international plowing matches near Goddich, Ontario, was Clarence Newhart, Plainfield, Ill., who found Canadian plowing, with emphasis on accuracy rather than speed, difficult.

PLAN NYLON PLANT — CANBERRA, Australia — (CP)—that workers may no longer produce of silk, rayon and nylon rules prohibited under the Indian materials is expected to begin to form the end of this year in a former Australian government plant. A subsidiary of 20 per cent of the plant leased by a Canadian firm at Wangaratta, Victoria. Management officials say the first production will be as cheap to buy in Australia as in Canada or America.

Spokane Spartans have a good name, but that's just about the only thing they possessed last night as for a senior hockey game. And good old King Louie's probably didn't have any tougher time holding the pass of Thermopylae when Xerxes started pushing his countrymen and the Athenians around, than Al Lafese experienced in trying to keep the Spartan net intact against the Flyers.

History makes no mention of the Spartans having a hockey club, but neither has Spokane — for the moment at least. And Rene Morin must be exceedingly optimistic if he expects the aggregation which took the ice at the arena Wednesday and in borrowed Canadian uniforms at that — to get anywhere in the Western International if the other teams in the league measure up to the calibre of Los Angeles Ramblers.

Spokane Spartans on exhibition here hardly rate as even a full intermediate club and a dollar ceiling price for tickets for such a game is nothing short of an imposition. Sonny Barstyn was the best of the Flyers had really started, Al Lafese would have had many more than 10 shots to handle. However, it was a good workout for Riley Muller's men and the passing, particularly of the Kreiter-Pringle-Smiten line, was a good show.

Canucks versus Canadians

With honors exactly even to date, Edmonton Canadians and Moose Jaw Canucks renew their junior hockey jousts at the arena here tonight. Coach Ken Dorsey and his Saskatchewan club are due to arrive this morning at 10:30 and the game will be scheduled for this evening at 8:30, with the second on Saturday.

Canucks put Canadians out of the western junior semi-finals two seasons ago in four straight and the Edmonton boys came back last spring with a four-goal margin. The Canucks had played twice during last winter, Canadians winning one and tying the other. And so the count, when the boys face off tonight, is five wins and five losses for each with one draw.

Metro Prystai will probably be the outstanding member of the Canucks, but Lovett Lockwood last year and Bedford was doubtful. Bev Bentley will be in goal and he's plenty good. It was doubtful last night if Harry Groves would be able to start tonight and of course Don Slater is in the hospital. Coach Earl Robertson has Johnny Sofak and "Sparky" Milner for goal, with Ron Mathews, Bob Gray, Jack Davies and, if necessary, Edouard Marchand for defence. Edouard Thomas, "Red" Hammond, Normie Kirk, Jimmy King, Doug Anderson, Leo Lochin, Bob Goodacre, George Herb and Jim Mallory are available for front line duty.

Huskies Here Saturday

Saskatchewan Huskies will be here this week for the western finals for the Hardy football trophy with Alberta's Golden Bears, the first game to be at 2:30 p.m. Saturday and the second under the lights Monday night. Bears won 8-0 and 18-0 at Saskatoon.

Alberta looked only against Calgary Stampede here last Monday until the manpower supply was exhausted. Calgary used 29 men and Bears 19, 21 (including two semi-casualties) being dressed.

Mickey Malach played 15 minutes in the games against Stampede last Saturday and Monday. Graham designed was in 117 minutes and Centre Giffen 116, while Pat Fellew worked 115. Bill Ingram and Eric Macdonald had it easy — missing six minutes in the two seasons.

Vancouver Planning Enter Pro Basketball

VANCOUVER, Oct. 24 (CP) — Something new is in the sport horizon for Vancouver come those rainy winter evenings just around the corner. It's professional basketball — the kind that draws big money in the south and east — and plans are underway for a Vancouver entry in a new Pacific Northwest League.

Classy amateur hoop teams are nothing new to Vancouver, home of many a Dominion championship club but this will be the first attempt to make the game a paying proposition.

But there are difficulties. John McClellan, a basketball player and ex-city councillor himself, has taken the job of business agent for the new league which reportedly may be part of an international pro hoop center operating in Toronto and the United States.

HIS MAIN WORRY is getting Vancouver team together to play the wide west coast Canadian competition for other PNL teams which will include Spokane, Yakima, Portland, Salem and Tacoma. Seattle was in, but latest reports say now it's out.

The city Mr. McClellan is said to have approached Victoria Indians veteran guard Percy Andrews thought that the coaching job was being taken by him. A lot of Victoria stars, such as Al Chambers, Dick Peden and others. He's also after Vancouver's Sandy Robertson and was also after Dominick Norman Baker until the latter signed a contract with a Chicago pro hoop at a reputed $4,800 a year.

PORKY has been with veteran Dominick coach Dave W. at last night's game. He's been around as anyone can remember, and he's not come since. He's been reportedly pointing the Victoria squad toward a U.S. amateur tour in the winter and possibly a shot at the Olympics in 1948. But the amateur now may be attracted by the sal-

A lot of Victoria stars, such as Al Chambers, Dick Peden and others. He's also after Vancouver's Sandy Robertson and was also after Dominick Norman Baker until the latter signed a contract with a Chicago pro hoop at a reputed $4,800 a year.

PORKY has been with veteran Dominick coach Dave W. at last night's game. He's been around as anyone can remember, and he's not come since. He's been reportedly pointing the Victoria squad toward a U.S. amateur tour in the winter and possibly a shot at the Olympics in 1948. But the amateur now may be attracted by the sal-

Spokane Flyers Faste Spokane Club

Spokane Spartans have a good name, but that's just about the only thing they possessed last night as for a senior hockey game. And good old King Louie's probably didn't have any tougher time holding the pass of Thermopylae when Xerxes started pushing his countrymen and the Athenians around, than Al Lafese experienced in trying to keep the Spartan net intact against the Flyers.

History makes no mention of the Spartans having a hockey club, but neither has Spokane — for the moment at least. And Rene Morin must be exceedingly optimistic if he expects the aggregation which took the ice at the arena Wednesday and in borrowed Canadian uniforms at that — to get anywhere in the Western International if the other teams in the league measure up to the calibre of Los Angeles Ramblers.

Spokane Spartans on exhibition here hardly rate as even a full intermediate club and a dollar ceiling price for tickets for such a game is nothing short of an imposition. Sonny Barstyn was the best of the Flyers had really started, Al Lafese would have had many more than 10 shots to handle. However, it was a good workout for Riley Muller's men and the passing, particularly of the Kreiter-Pringle-Smiten line, was a good show.

Rangers Upset Canadians 4-1

MONTREAL, Oct. 24 (CP) — A battling crew of New York Rangers pulled a major surprise here last night as they upset the world champion Montreal Canadiens 4-1 and went into tie for the National Hockey League lead with Toronto Maple Leafs.

Rangers' attack crew, outskated and out-fought in the first period when Canadiens took a 1-0 lead, scrambled back in the second to ram three goals past Bill Durnan and wound it up with a fourth in the last second.

A crowd of 10,888 paid to see the game, the largest since the Canadiens had to leave the ice for repairs early in the second period when a hard drive from Edgar Laprade's stick caught him on the forehead. He came back, somewhat battered, and from the face-off, the net hero Trudel grabbed Cal Gardner's pass and beat Durnan easily at 3:41.

New Basketball Loop Planning Nifty Payoffs

NEW YORK, Oct. 24 (AP) — Maurice Podoloff, president of the newly-organized Professional Basketball Association of America, announced Wednesday that a purse totaling $84,000 has been set aside to be distributed among the six of the 11 teams which compete in the post-season play-offs.

Of this sum $10,000 will be awarded to the teams which finish one, two, three in each division during the regular campaign. The league is divided into two divisions, six teams competing the eastern section and five teams in the west.

THE REMAINING $74,000 will be distributed among the teams competing in the play-offs, with the biggest jackpot going to the winners. Podoloff said that the play-off champions would receive $10,000 or approximately $2,000 a man.

The league's inaugural is slated for Nov. 1 when Toronto, the lone Canadian entry, meets New York Knicks in Toronto. Other cities in the league include Washington, Boston Providence and Philadelphia. Podoloff said that the league will have a total of 11 teams, including Chicago, Cleveland, Pittsburgh and St. Louis in the west.

Russians Settle On Ex-Jap Island

MOSCOW, (AP) — Four thousand Russian families from numerous villages throughout the Soviet Union have settled in former Japanese territory in the southern portion of Sakhalin Island. The settlers included charcoal cutters, farmers, tractor drivers, collective farmers and carpenters.

De Gaulle Moves in Election Watched Uneasily in France

PARIS, (AP) — As France's three governing parties take to the balloting, each seeking a solid mandate in the Nov. 10 election, the Overseas News Agency has interviewed their leading figures to get a summary of the opposing platforms.

The main opponent and chief target of the number one party, the Popular Republic Movement (M.R.P.), of President Bidault, is Communist Maurice Schumann, president of the M.R.P. took this correspondent in the foreign affairs, the M.R.P. fully supports President Bidault, who is also foreign minister, M. Schumann said.

During the war, M. Schumann was the voice of France in London over the London radio and a close associate of Gen. Charles de Gaulle. He is considered the leader of the more conservative elements of the M.R.P. who still lean toward the general. He was asked what the party's attitude toward Gen. de Gaulle would be.

De Gaulle Holds Influence — "The general is certainly the great unknown factor in French politics today," M. Schumann said. "Our party respects him and will never forget what de Gaulle did for his country. At the same time, it should be remembered that he is not composed of little errands, boys waiting to follow orders blindly. Our position on the constitutional referendum opposed that of Gen. de Gaulle and of high-ranking Catholic church dignitaries, and we established our case for all the independence and integrity of France's first party."

M. Schumann admitted the possibility of losing 30 or 40 seats Nov. 10. Gen. de Gaulle would speak against the M.R.P. if the general should remain silent, he said.

Sees Civil War Peril — "If the right reaction gains many seats," he said, "the danger of civil war is undeniable. The M.R.P. will oppose any attempt of the Communists to engineer a coup d'état, nor can we count except any support from the M.R.P."

He emphasized the M.R.P. would not countenance cutting the country in two in class warfare. "The anti-Communist M.R.P. means that we have something better to offer the workers of France than Communist dogma," he said.

The important thing for France is increased production and a five-year plan for economic rehabilitation. The franc must be defended, he added. He promised currency stabilization, reform of the fiscal system, reorganization of civil service, reorganization of the army and navy, modernized agriculture, retrenching in industry, reform of industry to give labor a voice, and planned immigration.

Keep Eye on Germany — In foreign affairs, he reaffirmed the M.R.P.'s faith in the Bidault policy and insisted Germany would remain the focal interest of France. The country's position between two blocs in the world was extremely delicate, he said, adding:

"The M.R.P. has demonstrated its value as the hinge of French political life, the real center party, which the nation regards as an even pole."

The principal force of the M.R.P. the Communist party, outlined its position in an interview with Jacques Duclos, secretary-general and parliamentary leader of France's second party. M. Duclos stated these plans, here summarized:

Want Price Control — First, reconstruction and reparations; third, defense of the franc; fourth, a foreign policy that will prevent France from being drawn into rival blocs; and fifth, the defense of labor, the small investor and the private property holder against the large, monopolistic trusts.

M. Duclos added that the Communist party will again insist on nationalization of the public office of Vichy and other colonial elements which are still a factor in the life of the country.

He added that this party demands full details on the food and textile scandals and the immediate arrest of the guilty.

Guy Mollet, secretary-general of the Socialist party, told this correspondent his faction would campaign vigorously in the election campaign on domestic and foreign issues. As to domestic policy, he said:

"We will pursue our traditional aims of preserving a Socialist society. We will call for an austerity program like that of the British Labor party, where there is equality of sacrifice, and a price control to assure a real purchasing power for the people of the country."

23 NAZIS TO DIE — BELGRADE, (Reuters) — Twenty-three German officers and soldiers of the S.S. and T.O. units were sentenced to death by shooting after being convicted of the murder of 1,300 Yugoslav war prisoners in camps in Norway and the ill-treatment of thousands of others.

Irish War Wife on Trial for Murder

For Bridget Waters, Irish war wife on trial in the slaying of her husband last Sept. 3, there is one hour each day in which thoughts of the murder trial are far from her mind. Mrs. Waters, 34, is now in the hospital where she was taken after her husband was shot during a fight. The 34-year-old war bride allegedly shot her husband to death with a pistol concealed in the folds of her baby's blanket as he reached to take the child in his arms when he visited his son in a Las Vegas, Nev. home where Mrs. Waters was employed.

British Ambassador Dries Dishes During 3-day Visit on Iowa Farm

WESTBURY CITY, Ia., (AP) — An Iowa farm youth's casual boasting about his home state brought Lord Inchiquin, British ambassador to the United States, to the home of Roger Newburn, the farm youth who lives four miles north of Westbury.

The ambassador's three-day visit last week was kept a secret until the ambassador, when he was back in Washington.

Lord Inchiquin said in advance he wanted his first sight of Iowa devoid of "canneries, newspapers and other such people."

The Francis E. Newburn household was in a double several days before his arrival.

How was the farm family to entertain a British lord?

The envoy was greeted there with a "washed, good Iowa farm." After tours of farms, a look at the hybrid seed corn plant called "A" and his first sight of a combine and a corn picker in operation, the ambassador commented: "God has been good to this country."

The whole thing started last August.

Canadian Outsmarts Germans By Feigning Broken Spine

MONTREAL, (CP) — Army doctors, although they alert for "lead swimmers," sometimes were fooled by the fake symptoms of soldiers who wanted a 48-hour respite from their labors.

Not so-called but a desire to work with the French Maquis and then to gain his own freedom.

After a Canadian doctor to turn the tables by twice fooling the army.

In this case, the war-medicine was a fake broken spine.

Dr. Rabinovich, 27-year-old doctor at the Montreal Neurological Institute of the Royal Victoria Hospital, engineers the release from a French internment camp in 1942 by feigning a fall and a broken spine. French doctors co-operated by providing a complete chart, X-rays and a plaster cast to convince the camp commandant that the Canadian should be freed on "house arrest."

The second "back-breaking" episode occurred 20 months later when Dr. Rabinovich, posing as an American Airman to prevent his being shot as a underground agent, was a prisoner-war German.

The German then sent him to England on a POW of war.

It all started when the Germans look over Paris in July, 1940.

Dr. Rabinovich, completing 12 years of study under the internationally famous neuro-urologist, Vincent Gleya, was sent to France, an internment camp where 100 British subjects were crowded four to each one-man cell.

There followed a strange cycle of 15 months of French internment, 15 months of freedom working with the Maquis, 15 months of imprisonment in England, followed by 15 months of freedom in England before returning to Canada last August.

Dr. Rabinovich was in and out of four French internment camps for British nationals, in each case of which, as a student of neuro-surgery, he was called on to examine only medical services available. He was able to convince the commandant of each to allow him to send the serious cases to Paris hospitals.

When the chief surgeons were former professors and friends of his.

The "house arrest" period for far and seriously sick internment was stated in his camp on his initiative. He was able to exploit the system to give comparative freedom to some 300 British internment.

But all cases of minor surgery, broken limbs, and other ailments, he had to treat in the camp. One, he recalls, he had to treat the case of "pulmonary oedema"—flooding of the lungs—by opening up of a man's veins with a petalike. It worked.

Truman Asks U. N. For Press Freedom

NEW YORK, (AP) — President Truman and Paul-Henri Spaak, president of the United Nations assembly, gave the green light Wednesday to the world press and other news channels in their efforts to achieve a free flow of information among the nations.

Mr. Truman said in his address to the United States Congress a converted effort must be made to break down the barriers to a free flow of information among the nations of the world.

Mr. Spaak delivered a considerable part of his opening speech to the responsibility of the press in its coverage of the United Nations.

"The press has a great part to play in the world situation and I believe that in the final analysis the success or failure of our efforts depends on the press," he said.

I ask the press to do a great service; that it will agree not to dramatize unnecessarily our debates; that it will refrain as far as it can from dwelling on the sensational aspects of the news it distributes; and that on the other hand it will be a powerful and active agent for mutual understanding and that it will not present as a spokesman that statesman who seeks the path of conciliation and accepts compromise.

One of the points which the assembly must deal with is establishing a free-construction on freedom of information. The assembly has been in session since the end of the war.

CHICAGO, (AP) — Byron Price, waiting citizenship director, declared Wednesday that freedom of the press and radio in the United States were in "real and unimpaired" state during the critical stages of the war.

Some persons "in places of importance" urged that the broadcasting industry not only could, but should, be taken under compulsory control in the name of national defense. Mr. Price said in a speech to the National Association of Broadcasters.

Mr. Price said advocates of "war-censorship" in the name of national defense were unable to convince the National Association of Broadcasters of their in the government, who refused to go along with a program of "censorship and gagging."

5 Families Seize Vacant Dwelling

MONTREAL, (CP) — As five war veterans settled their families in a new home Thursday, leaders of Montreal's first squatters hinted that other vacant houses are likely to be taken over.

"This is the first squatter we've seen," said Ben Labell, head of the Home Veterans League, which late Wednesday moved five families into an empty, three-story dwelling in the Montreal shopping district.

"The families that moved in are the parents of a child, said Henri Gascon, one of the veterans. "All have jobs and are ready to pay their rent."

Police Inspector Rawley said he had received no complaint from the owner or manager of the building.

At the moment, the police will assume the veterans have a right to move them with a court order.

From the chairman of the Canadian Legion's housing committee, J. L. E. Price, came the statement that "in taking formal possession of private property, these veterans are breaking the law. This is contrary to the ways of the Canadian Legion to respect private property at all times."

U. S., India Agree Nam Ambassadors

WASHINGTON, (AP) — The United States and India agreed Wednesday to name their diplomatic representation to the level of ambassador in the apparent American gesture of J. P. S. and friendship for India's new interim government.

Gland-Grafting Aids Two Women

LONDON, CP.—A unique gland-grafting operation successfully has cured a 33-year-old woman of dread Addison's disease and simultaneously brought health to another woman from whom the grafted gland was taken, the authoritative British Medical Journal reported.

The first patient suffered from inadequate supply of secretion from the suprarenal gland and had been kept alive by large salt dosages. Physicians found another woman, 31, suffering from an over-active suprarenal gland, the over-active gland in less than an hour was grafted successfully to the blood vessels of the other's abdominal vein.

The victim of Addison's disease, now 15 years later, apparently is cured. The patient from whom the gland was removed also made a "good recovery."

Dedicates Chapel Victorian Order

LONDON, CP.—The ancient chapel of the Saviour in downtown London was dedicated this week to the use of the Royal Victorian Order by His Majesty the King, who formally presented new silver altar plate as a gift of the Royal family to the church.

The Royal Victorian Order is the only order of chivalry or distinction personally governed by the royal family. They appoint and promote members of their own volition, unlike other orders in which the royal family acts on the advice of politicians or service chiefs.

The Saviour is the King's own chapel and on his coronation he placed it at the disposal of the Royal Victorian Order. The royal family subscribed for the gift of silverware and in October, 1939, it was appointed first service of the order.

But war intervened and for safeguarding the plate, including a crucifix and four candlesticks, was sent to New York.

Lord Halifax, former ambassador to the United States, brought the plate back with him on his return to the United Kingdom last December.

British Unionists Ask 40-Hr. Week

BRIGHTON, England (AP)—The British Trades Union congress Wednesday adopted without debate a general council report calling for industry-wide application of the 40-hour week.

The council report said there was "no industry in which the principle of a 40-hour week could not be accepted and implemented," and called for legislation to make such a program effective.

Allow Publication Some Nazi Pictures

BERLIN, (AP)—Official photographs of the bodies of the 11 major Nazi war criminals who died at Nuremberg were distributed by the Allied control authority's secretariat here Wednesday to representatives of the American, Russian and French press for publication Thursday.

No pictures were given to British press representatives. The British government has opposed publication of the pictures.

The control camp forbade publication in the German press and saw to German papers by any illustrated picture agency. The pictures will be published in American publications which circulate in Germany.

Former Fusiliers Present at Reunion

About 100 former members of Edmonton Fusiliers were present at a reunion under the Victoria armory Wednesday night. They included a few whose first service with the Fusiliers dated back to 1890.

Col. J. B. Jamieson, who commanded the 3rd Battalion, Edmonton Fusiliers, presided at all the reunion. He urged that all join the Fusiliers association in order to perpetuate the traditions of the Fusiliers.

One of the guests was Lt. Robert Woodman, a former N.C.O. in the 1st Battalion, who has accepted an Imperial army commission. He will return to Inverness, Scotland, at the end of his leave.

Angry Over Uruguay Stand Peron Bans Wheat Export

By ERIC HILL

Black bread has become a leading political issue in Uruguay's presidential campaign. National elections are scheduled for Nov. 24. Uruguayan, who are used to some of the best food in the world, are eating coarse black bread these days, because President Juan Domingo Peron, of Argentina, refused to send them flour.

Peron has been angry with Argentina's little neighbor across the river, because Uruguay's foreign minister, Eduardo Rodriguez Larreta, has proposed that all the countries of the hemisphere get together with those countries in which people are dissatisfied with their present basic guarantees of freedom.

Rodriguez Larreta has proposed a direct to Argentina several months before the United States president. It has received a lukewarm reception in most countries, although the United States has not.

Peron, striking back at Uruguay's democratic regime, ordered Argentine shippers to stop sending wheat to that country.

And so all bread and rolls have taken on a dusky grey appearance. Bread is made from local wheat, part of which is imported.

The Liberal Colorado party, which has run Uruguay for some 16 years, knows that Peron is using pressure of wheat shipments to embarrass it before the November election.

This became increasingly obvious recently when Eduardo V. Flores, leader of the Independent Blanco party, announced that he was trying to convince Peron to restrict shipments.

Macia, a friend of the Argentine president, is Peron's choice for the presidency of Uruguay. Macia hopes to get wheat to win votes.

Peron, of course, has been using the international influence in Chile, Paraguay, Bolivia and Brazil in an effort to create a South American bloc to offset the United States.

Recent interference

Many Uruguayans resent Peron's interference in their affairs. Most observers predict that he will have his ears pinned back and that Macia and the conservative Blanco-Herreristas will be defeated. "Luis de Herrera, one of the leading 1942 presidential candidates," the Colorado party, they say, will patch up its internal differences and win the election.

In the meantime, Uruguayans are grumbling, eating bad bread and expressing their resentment against Peron.

Wants friendly Chile

In Paraguay and Bolivia, Peron already is lined up with the present administration. He is making every effort to get a friendly new administration in Chile.

In Brazil he has made some headway but appears to have less of a chance. His strongest link is with Joao Batista Luzardo, Brazil's new ambassador to Argentina. Batista Luzardo is a close friend of Peron's. Peron met him at the airport recently when he arrived at Buenos Aires. Batista Luzardo is considered to think politically much as does the new Argentine president.

The British people undoubtedly resent this drain on their financial resources. A young electrician just setting up business after being discharged from army service said: "I find that people don't want to invest in electrical equipment because they feel their income is being taxed too heavily. They are very angry because it is said that the payment for German food must amount to one shilling (25 cents) being added to their income tax. Having to meet this demand makes it seem like they will be a delay in getting back to normality."

The people asked why they should be spending money to feed the Germans when Dr. Edith Bremer, parliamentary secretary to the food ministry, announced in the commons there would be no letting up of rationing in sugar, tea and bread.

Also adding to the civilians' burden, is the rise by Rensselaer Rivett, minister of fuel and power, to coal miners to produce sufficient coal to tide over the domestic consumers this winter.

Union Is Disbanded As Firm-Dominated

REGINA, (CP)—The Saskatchewan labor relations board has classified the Canadian Distribution Union, Local 2, of the Western Grocers Limited, as a "company-dominated" union and certified in its place the United Retail, Wholesale and Department Store Employees Union (CGLU), it was announced Wednesday.

Board officials said the action was one of the most significant they had taken to date and demonstrated the power of the provincial trade union act to disband company unions.

There are 45 employees affected by the change.

Britons Resent Feeding Germans

LONDON, (NANA)—Two years will see the end of Britain's shortages in food, clothes, coal and steel, according to a prediction made by Hugh Dalton, chancellor of the exchequer, at a luncheon for London bankers and merchants.

But he also brought up the vexing question of $200,000,000 which Britain is having to spend to feed the Germans. This Dalton described as "British reparations to the Germans which the taxpayer has every right to resent."

The British people undoubtedly resent this drain on their financial resources. A young electrician just setting up business after being discharged from army service said: "I find that people don't want to invest in electrical equipment because they feel their income is being taxed too heavily. Eire Opens Drive For Bacon Market

DUBLIN, (Reuters) — Agriculture Minister James Ryan said Wednesday that he wants Eire farmers and bacon curers to "get to work" to capture a share of Britain's import demand for pork—if necessary from meat now exported by Canada and the United States.

Before the war Eire sent Britain more than 24,000 tons of pork annually, but while Britain's demands have increased, Eire's pig production fell nearly 10 percent during the war and the country was unable to take advantage of the increasing demand.

Dr. Ryan said that by intensification of production under a new plan Eire now aims at doubling her pre-war export of pork as soon as possible. Explaining the plan to Eire farmers, he said that the scheme has many elements aimed at full nationalization in the pig raising industry, although the government would be permitted to take over the industry.

He said there would be a drastic control of production, factories will be completely amalgamated or close and the board authorized to do these things will have the authority to open factories of its own.

Seeks Bill Stop C.B.C. 'Publishing'

REGINA, (CP) — John Diefenbaker, Progressive Conservative member of parliament for Lake Centre, Sask., said Wednesday he would introduce a bill at the next session of parliament to remove from the C.B.C. the "power" it has to publish newspapers and periodicals.

Addressing some 200 delegates to the Saskatchewan Progressive Conservative two-day convention here, Diefenbaker said the C.B.C. "might conceivably commence to publish newspapers and periodicals" under the bill. He said the bill would grant to it by parliament last summer.

The Progressive Conservative party believed the C.B.C. should not dominate the private radio station of this country.

The National Film Board and the C.B.C. were "flooding the country with propaganda equally as tainted as that being put out by the Saskatchewan C.C.F. government," he said.

McGeer Raps Lack Municipal Revenue

VANCOUVER, (CP) — A transition from the present "two-dimensional" federal government system of national parliament and provincial legislatures into a "three-dimensional" scheme including local governments, was advocated here Wednesday in a radio address by Senator G. C. McGeer.

"The responsibility of each should be defined," the senator said. "The sources of revenue required must be made available and must be guaranteed to each branch and program of overall co-operation between all three must be assured."

The senator said he is convinced that a good government in Canada depends upon parliament, legislature and civic, municipal and local authorities.

"The collapse of the dominion-provincial conferences in a deadlock has exposed the fundamental deficiency of our Canadian constitution. That deficiency is the failure of our constitution to provide and to guarantee sufficient revenues to permit our provinces and cities to care for the local needs of the people."

Report Big Drop In Export Trade

OTTAWA, (CP) — Canadian merchandise export trade in September was valued at $1,077,700,000, according to figures released by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics here.

The decrease was attributed mainly to a drop in agricultural exports, and in the iron products group.

Average value of merchandise exported during the month of September was $1,077,700,000, compared with $1,152,844,000 in the corresponding period last year.

Movement abroad of wood products and paper continued heavy in September, the total being $42,200,000, compared with $40,000,000 a year ago. Value of newspaper paper rose from $17,200,000 to $19,000,000.

Canada's export of wheat also moved up, totalling $13,700,000, compared with $12,800,000, as did wheat pulp from $8,200,000 to $9,310,000.

Exports of animal and agricultural products advanced to $2,064,000, an increase of $1,000,000 over September, 1945. Fish and fishery products were valued at $6,000,000, compared with $5,100,000, and meat $12,000,000, compared with $11,400,000.

Exports of fur were $1,000,000, and live animals $1,000,000, exports of which were $1,000,000, compared with $1,000,000, and live animals $1,000,000, exports of which were $1,000,000.

Exports of minerals and metals were $1,000,000, compared with $1,000,000, and live animals $1,000,000, exports of which were $1,000,000.

Open International Art Exhibition

NEW YORK, (AP) — The first international art display in the United States since the war is on exhibition this month at the Federal Art Institute in Chicago.

The exhibition, which is the largest in the history of the Federal Art Institute, is the result of the American Institute of Graphic Arts of the Morgan Library, repository of some of the world's finest books.

Over 2,000-year-old scrolls of Egyptian papyrus are rough loaves of bread, printed in Yugoslavia during the war years by artists who took their materials from the floors of buildings.

Books of the last 10 years are featured. Books of Australia and Canada were simulated during the war years when imports from England were curtailed and publishers felt a moving apart.

In Canada, especially, there is a movement away from photographs, long extolled because they "mixed nothing."

William Collette of Canada says. The reader is growing tired of seeing nothing mixed and is turning with relief to the artist's rendering of people and places that mixes much with advantage.

Convict Motorist Of Manslaughter

WINNIPEG, (CP) — John Bennett, Campbell, 28, of Lac du Bonnet, Man., was convicted of manslaughter in court here Wednesday.

Charles was held following an automobile accident June 20 at Lac du Bonnet, 60 miles northeast of here, in which Gerald A. Clancy died.

Clancy was a passenger in Campbell's car. Bennett was driving the car at the time of the accident.

The charge was manslaughter. Bennett was charged with manslaughter.

French Official To Speak in City

Mr. Rene Thibault, Ottawa, director of the French information committee, and press attaché at the French Embassy, will address a meeting of the Edmonton branch of the Canadian Institute of International Affairs on the subject "French International Relations and the National Government," at 8 p.m. on Tuesday, Oct. 24, at the former CIO hall at 300, 302 and 304 Avenue.

EDUCATED IN PARIS. Mr. Thibault is a graduate of L'École Normale Supérieure, and taught in Paris for two years before coming to Canada.

Late in the summer of 1940 he came to Canada on his way to join General Charles de Gaulle's Free French, and served on the general's personal staff until July, 1942 when he joined the ministry of the formation of the French National Committee in London.

In the course of his stay he acted as liaison officer between the French and Allied press, and in January this year he was appointed to his present post.

William Brown, City Man Dies

Employee of Industries Ltd., and resident of Alberta for 43 years, William Brown died Monday, He was 60 years old.

He is survived by three daughters, Mrs. P. W. Abbott, Mrs. I. Norman, and Mrs. A. B. Bell, all of Edmonton and one brother, James, in Scotland.

Funeral service was held at 2 p.m. Thursday in Howard & McBrice funeral chapel. Burial took place in Edmonton cemetery.

Missing Persons

Police have been asked to locate Mrs. Lenora Carothers and Mrs. Mildred Byrd, both known to have been in the city in 1937 and employed at Swift and Company. Their brother Henry Shaw of Milwaukee, Wisconsin is desirous of knowing their whereabouts. Clarence N. Elliott of Eagle Lake, Virginia, is trying to locate his brother Percy Clark Elliott and his sister Mrs. A. W. Davis.

TRY BUILDING UP YOUR CHILD THIS WAY

SCIENCE has proved there are certain food elements everyone needs for health. If there aren't enough of them in a child's food, serious things can happen—such as stunted growth, soft bones, poor teeth, faulty nerves, loss of appetite, defective vision.

Ovaltine supplements the diet with elements frequently deficient in ordinary foods. The serving of Ovaltine furnishes a significant portion of a child's daily requirements of Vitamin A, B, C, D, E, Calcium, Iron, and Niacin and Minerals Calcium, Phosphorus and Iodine.

In addition to providing the basic food substances—complex proteins—to build muscle, nerve and body cells, high-energy foods for vitality and endurance. It thus acts as an insurance against food deficiencies that retard normal growth.

So if your child is poorly, is thin, underweight, perhaps nervous, why not try delicious Ovaltine for normal growth and better appetite.

Rural Teachers Begin Study of Problems

Upwards of 300 delegates registered Thursday morning for the inter-local teachers' convention of the 2nd Edmonton District, being held Thursday and Friday in the Masonic Temple. They were welcomed by J.R. Hemphill of Bruce, chairman.

The RT. REV. W.B. Carlson, vicar-general of the Roman Catholic Archdiocese of Edmonton gave the invocation prayer.

Representing the City of Edmonton, Mayor Harry Elliott welcomed the delegates to the convention and wished them success in their deliberations. He stressed the role played by the teacher and the school in the life of the municipality and district and said their work in behalf of education of the young was appreciated and well thought of.

General secretary of the Alberta Teachers' Association, E.C. Ansley, spoke during the morning session on present-day salaries and pensions. On salaries, he spoke of the survey conducted by the committee in the past few months and the results of their study.

"THE ATA HAS BEEN studying the present pension scheme," he said, "and I'm working to get a better scheme put into practice. They have prepared a report on what teachers should be paid and the results of the study. The provincial secretary and minister of education will be asked to consider the report."

An evaluation program has been developed by the ATA, Mr. Ansley said, "to evaluate the progress made by children from year to year. This program calls for co-operation by the ATA, the faculty of education of the university and the department of education, to prepare series of tests to be used in Alberta schools to measure progress made in learning and thinking by children in each grade."

DR. W.M. SWIFT, deputy minister of education in the provincial government spoke on the "Pro-posed Revision of the Elementary School Program." In his talk, he outlined the work being currently done by B.T. O'Brien in the preparation of a revised program of teaching for elementary grades.

For this revision, Dr. Swift said the department would welcome any suggestions of the convention, either by individuals or from the convention at large.

Radio Club Plans Hold Convention

W. D. G. Allen, district speaker in the city, was the guest speaker at the recent monthly meeting of the Northern Alberta Radio Club, which is held the third Friday of each month.

Edward Bryant, the club's new president was in the chair. He asked for the support of all members in order to put the club back on its feet. Edmonton is to be the scene for the 1947 Northern Alberta Radio Hamfest and a committee of arrangements to make this the outstanding radio convention of Western Canada. It is to be held in the city of Edmonton.

Mr. Allen appeared to the "Hams" to orient themselves again in the scene of radio. He emphasized the necessity of encouraging the interest of the younger generation, who he felt were under a handicap due to the influx of specially built and costly equipment, resulting in the lack of home built and simple equipment necessary to give the younger experimenters the incentive to "make it work."

Service was held in Foster and McGraw funeral chapel with the Rev. Glen Campbell officiating. Burial took place in Edmonton cemetery.

Blaze on Tram Quickly Put Out

A minor fire under the front vestibule of a street car shortly after 10 p.m. Wednesday caused little alarm among the passengers aboard. One risk from the city fire department reported and within 20 minutes from the time the call was put in the street car was on its way again. At the time of the fire the car was at 82 avenue and 100 street. Overheated wires are believed responsible for the fire. Damage to the car was practically nil.

City Musician Laid to Rest

A funeral service was held recently in the city for George Stott, Edmonton musician, who died in the city Oct. 16. He was 61 years old.

BORN IN MONTROSE, Scotland. Mr. Stott came to Alberta in 1929 and to Edmonton in 1930. He was a tenor member of the Edmonton Male Chorus, as well as organist and director of the Edmonton Scottish Choir. He later became a member of the Civic Opera Society and Lyric Musical and Dramatic club.

He is survived by his wife, one daughter, Mrs. Harry Brown of Edmonton, three brothers and three sisters in Scotland.

Before the Magistrate

Howard J. Magnan appeared before Magistrate A.L. Miller, K.C. in city police court Wednesday on a charge of theft and was remanded until Oct. 23. The accused is alleged to have entered the room of Elton Wood in the St. Regis hotel shortly after 4 a.m. Wednesday and taken a wallet containing $28 in cash and a check for $13. When searched the accused was found to be carrying $21 in cash.

Paul Turner, convicted on a charge of assault and fined $10 and costs. Evidence showed that the accused had become involved in an argument with Mrs. Annie Nether and had struck her across the face.

A CHARGE of assault laid against John Crawford by Mrs. Lydia Tier was dismissed when Mr. Miller refused to accept testimony of witnesses.

TWELVE MONTHS suspended sentence was imposed on Lester Speckman following his plea of guilty to a charge of theft of a pair of binoculars from a room mate.

City firemen responded to 43 fire calls during September, according to the department's monthly figures. Of this number nine were false alarms. There were only five fireless days during the month and the most calls in one day was four, on Sept. 21.

base steel corporations of Great Britain, spokesman at No. 10 Downing street declared.

Following a recent snub by the British Iron and Steel Federation, from which it had been expelled, the government is eager to confirm the impression it has not abandoned its announced plan to nationalize steel.

When they bent before the hostility of the steel trust, the Socialists' rumblings the government were denounced by the Communist and their own left wing for "selling out" to the steel barons. The Conservative press praised the government mildly for putting "recovery before reform."

The minister of supply, John Wilson, early this spring proposed a joint committee of industrialists, labor representatives, and distributed outsiders, to work out plans for modernizing the industry and for nationalizing it. The British steel makers refused to sit on the committee if nationalization remained on its agenda.

Wilson finally surrendered, and appointed a tripartite committee which will study only the subject of plant modernization. Meanwhile, it is learned officially, the government has retired to its bureaucratic shell and developed its own plan for nationalization, through the pre-emptive purchase of majority stock in the steel corporations.

Keep Individual Firms
Earlier government plans called for the lumping of the basic industry into one government project, the way the nationalized coal industry will be operated. After the refusal of the industry leaders even to discuss nationalization, the government experts changed their plans, and decided to retain the identity of individual firms, so the government would not lose the benefit of their good will and trade relations.

Compensation for the steel corporation stocks taken by the government would be determined by the same body used for evaluating the coal mines. It was said by a government spokesman. The government payment for the coal mines ($68,640,000) was determined in secret session by a special judicial board, the criterion being a "reasonable payment" based on past profits and future prospects. Government insistence that it

Goering Ordered Destruction of Coventry — He Died, It Lives

Just six years ago Reichsmarshal Hermann Goering gave his Luftwaffe orders to wipe Coventry off the map. The English cathedral city was a thorn in the Nazi side with its great war plants turning out the staff of which resistance was made. The Luftwaffe did its worst. Fire and high explosives were rained on the city for hours and it was left a burning mass of wreckage. But the spark of life remained, and today, Coventry is on the road back, having shaken the rubble out of its hair and begun the task of rebuilding. Great plans have been made for the city, whose ordeal put a new word in the dictionary. A new Coventry of steel, stone and glass is slated to arise on the ruins of the old. And the man who doomed it to death, Hermann Goering, destined to die a shameful death on the gallows for his war crimes, committed suicide. At left, above, is Earl of Coventry as it looked after the great blitz. On the right is the same street as it appears today with the rubble cleared to make way for new buildings.

needs loans for food and raw materials. Without them, our situation will grow increasingly more desperate and Fascist elements will get their best chance to ruin popular support.

But loans should not be given to bolster the capitalist campaign. Fortunately we can see a guarantee against that in the plans for the socialization of heavy industry."

Expressing his belief that the Goebbels' attitude did not end the matter, Dr. Schumacher declared that one of the freed defendants, Franz von Papen, was among the most guilty of all Germans and that he and the big industrialists should be brought to justice.

"To deal with such people adequately is probably the most important phase of carrying through the socialization and demilitarization," he said, "much more important than fines and imprisonment for the little Nazis."

Claims Germany Needs Socialism
By Landover Bolling
BERLIN, (CNS)—As Germans in the Russian zone of occupation were going to the polls this week, Dr. Kurt Schumacher, national leader of the Social Democrats, told the Overseas News Agency in an exclusive interview that German nationalism, in his opinion, was still a danger. He charged that it was being whipped up as an even greater threat by the irresponsible propaganda of extremist political groups of the Right and Left.

"The task of the Social Democrats calls for a constant fight against nationalism both of the right wing elements of the Christian Democrats and against the equally vicious nationalism which is being stirred up by the Communists. Germany can have democracy and peace only if we turn to the constructive job of fitting ourselves into the framework of a unified, democratic, socialist Europe. There lies the hope for world peace, for there will be no peace if either the east or the west tries to dominate Germany and Europe."

Need Economic Base
Dr. Schumacher asserted that democratic tendencies exist inside Germany but that they need the economic foundation which they do not yet possess.

To assure democracy in Germany, we must socialize the major industries, banks and insurance companies. Without socialism, we shall not get democracy in Germany. The big capitalists use economic power to give Hitler his chance. If they are revived how they will once again seek a mad soldier to lead us into the same way."

"Under wholly different circumstances and history, capitalism and democracy can develop together in the United States, but in Germany that is impossible. At the same time, we must constantly demand that democracy must be the foundation of socialism. Communist attempts to socialize through a dictatorship results in neither socialism nor democracy but only state capitalism."

Soviet Policy Filled
"In the beginning of the occupation by the four Allies, only Russia had a clear policy toward Germany and Europe. That policy has failed. Now the western Allies seem to be getting a policy but it is not clear whether it is the right one. It will be a great tragedy if the western powers use their influence to revive big German capitalists. Germany, for instance, desperately

Briton Suggests Empire Mingling

LONDON, (CNS)—Herb A. H. W. Low, Conservative M.P. for Blackpool North, feels at home with Canadians but he says there must be more direct association between peoples of the Commonwealth if the understanding necessary for unity is to be achieved.

He attained the rank of brigadier in his early 30s and is the friend of many of Canada's younger generals who were his acquaintances from 1939 on. He himself served in the Mediterranean and Austria and hopes to visit Canada next year.

But this would only be the start. His plan is that others should copy the Conservative example so that there would be a constant stream of visits going on, with dominion visitors sponsored by various parties or organizations, or completely independent, coming to the United Kingdom and a major movement of travelers in the other direction.

He said he feels some action is needed to obtain practical cooperation with the dominions in setting up common organizations which would assist in preserving peace, imperial security would breed world security. One essential was that the dominions share fully all decisions and responsibilities associated with defense as Britain could not carry the load alone.

"It's the best 'fill' I know"

"Like most pipe smokers, I've made the rounds looking for a real cool smoke, and when I say 'cool,' I mean a tobacco you can smoke all day long. Yes, for a cool, easy-packing, smooth-burning, fragrant smoke, Picobac is the best 'fill' I know."
